AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Current law requires the Department of Information Resources (DIR), in cooperation with the comptroller and other appropriate state agencies, to develop training program for state agency personnel who contract for the purchase of information resources technologies, but it does not require agency personnel to complete the training. S.B. 255 would remedy this by requiring the training for most such agency personnel.

The bill also would address certain subject-specific deficiencies in existing training programs. For example, under current law, the training program for contract managers and the abbreviated training program offered to agency governing boards is not required to include information regarding how to maintain contract documentation, create a risk evaluation and mitigation strategy, create a plan for potential problems with a contract, develop an accurate and comprehensive statement of work, or complete the contract and evaluate performance. To remedy this omission, S.B. 255 would expressly require those topics' inclusion in the training.

To better assess the cost and value of training, the bill would require any state agency that spends more than $5,000 in a fiscal year on training or education for any administrator or employee to submit a report to the Legislative Budget Board including a list of employees participating in training, the amount spent on each employee, and the certification each earned.

Finally, S.B. 255 would reorganize state agency contracting law. The current law governing training for state agency contracting personnel is scattered across a number of different statutes. A general "State Employees Training Act" appears in the Government Code, but other agency- and subject matter-specific training provisions appear elsewhere. In the interests of greater uniformity of standards across state agencies and of better statutory organization, S.B. 255 would consolidate the various, scattered provisions relating to training (in information resources, purchasing, and contract management, respectively) from their current places in code to the State Employee Training Act, and would re-designate them as sections under that Act.

As proposed, S.B. 255 amends current law relating to training for governmental entities and vendors, including purchasing and contract management training; authorizing fees.
